Waste Reduction Hero, Sandra Broomfield and Her Grade 2 Students Peacock Primary School

As school principal at Peacock Primary, Sandra Broomfield is sowing the seeds of environmental principles in her grade 2 students, and her plans are really taking root. These grade 2 students take a hands-on approach to learning about the organic process by getting their hands dirty on a local farm, and learning how growing and consuming local produce reduces shipping and packaging waste. This isn't the only food for thought Peacock students are given at their school. They continue to plot even more green initiatives, like waste-free lunch days.
