Waste Reduction Hero, “Composter Man” Jim Grenning

St. John’s

Jim Grenning’s efforts to reduce waste have proven that beauty really can sprout up in the most unlikely places. Jim and his family have been composting for “many, many years,” and he uses the rich soil of his efforts in his yard, where his flower garden has flourished into one of the neighbourhood’s finest, proving that you really can reap what you sow, and benefit from your environmental efforts. The green-thumbed, green-thinking Grennings set a good example of how every family could be doing their part to reduce waste.
